Devalon Bryant after he scores another touchdown against Alpine.

The 1994 Yellow Jackets season was one filled with ups and downs. The season was a disappointing one for most people. The Jackets won their first two games and then lost five in a row. After the fifth straight loss, ten people quit the team. The Jackets then won two in a row, and almost beat the district champ Greenwood the last game. The one thing that will be remembered about the year, is the fact that the team overcame a lot of adversity to finish the year strong.
