A wise man once said that the three requisites of a good teacher are humor, broad-mindedness, and wisdom. Ask any student and he will tell you that Mr. Dawson is a good teacher, counselor and friend. His interest, both in the classroom and out of it, is as genuine as the twinkle in his eye. His keen sense of humor and clear perception of human nature make daily contacts with him a privilege. So to Mr. Julian Dawson--teacher, counselor, friend--we dedicate this 1957 Sandstorm.
