

FOREWORD

Time is endless and it passes unceasingly before us. But as time flies, it leaves behind one treasure--memories. Here on the pages of this book we have tried to capture those memories and hold them for you.

As you leaf through your Sandstorm, you are the master of time, and it with all its memories is yours. We have caught on film, pictures of sights that are familiar to you, and used them to carry out our theme, WINKLER COUNTY, in hopes that in the future they will conjure up for you memories of happy times, sad, perhaps thoughtful times you have spent in the sandduned, derrick spotted, oil rich town you have called home.

If we can do this, our mission will have been accomplished. Here then, is your 1959 Sandstorm--you helped make it, you're in it--now it's yours.

DEDICATION

JOHNNIE ROBERTS

We dedicate this annual to Mr. Roberts to whom the teaching and guidance of young people is a most important and serious matter. Working at this during and after school hours, he is one of the best teachers to be found in classrooms anywhere and is willing to take on anything within his power in school and out that will benefit young people. Our Student Council, especially, has come to be most effective under his guidance. He would do anything to help us live up to our capabilities, but enjoys fun and foolishness as much as we do. A fine man, a fine teacher, and a fine Christian, he is a good example to students, and teachers alike. How fortunate are all who have known him.
