Administration

They have the hardest job of all,
To tolerate teenagers all day long.
They fight the noise and crowded hills,
But always stand firm and never guide us wrong.
Always dedicated to purpose and cause--

They try so hard to better our lives.
Teaching's a profession with out a pause.
When we stray wrong our paths they derive;
We don't appreciate them like we really ought to--
But without them to teach us what would we do?
