

SADIE HAW

The race was on, and hopeful girls began the chase of the men of their choice. Yes, Sadie Hawkins' week, proclaimed just for the women, began November 4, and kept the boys on their toes, but usually a jump ahead, until the ninth.

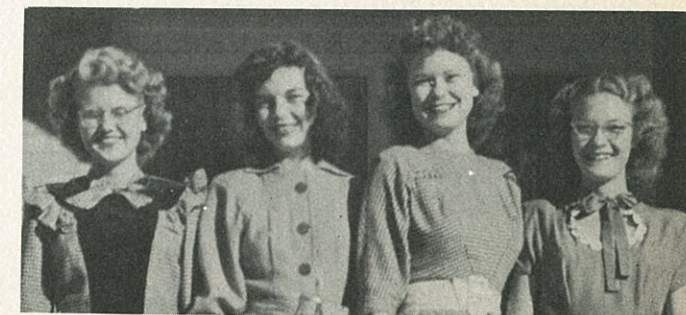

It was a turn-about week—the girls carried books, opened doors, bought the drinks, asked for dates, and even furnished the cars. Those breaking the rules of Dogpatch, strictly enforced by Tommy Berry and his deputies, were taken to court. Fines and sentences were imposed by Judge Sidney Holmes.

KINS WEEK

Dates for the dance were decided in the regular Sadie Hawkins race. Captured men were lost souls, and had to accept dates. The fleet-footed ones who escaped weren't free long, girls who finished the race empty-handed asked these boys. Highlight of the week was the crowning of the "Queen of Dogpatch." Winner of the contest was Evelyn Briggs, freshman nominee. Others in the race were Syble Higgins, Theresa Maples, and Nina Kate Giles.

Jimmy ties knot for Eloise and Joe Don while Rob "supervises" . . . "Don't drink at all, Marks," says J. B. as Sylvia and Rayford plead for mercy . . . Miss Carter, sponsor . . . "Jug-head" Wood . . . Miss Bell . . . Queen Nominees: Evelyn Briggs, Theresa Maples, Nina Giles, and Syble Higgins . . . Coach gives directions to boys on how to keep a step ahead of girls . . . Dogpatch citizens.