

Marcia, New York vamp, uses her line on George as Jane looks on.

Elroy's kiss gives Rose a big thrill — but gave Marcia mumps.

George and Jane try to separate their quarrelling fathers, who, as usual, are fighting over their prize peonies.

STRICTLY FORMAL

Junior Play

Cast

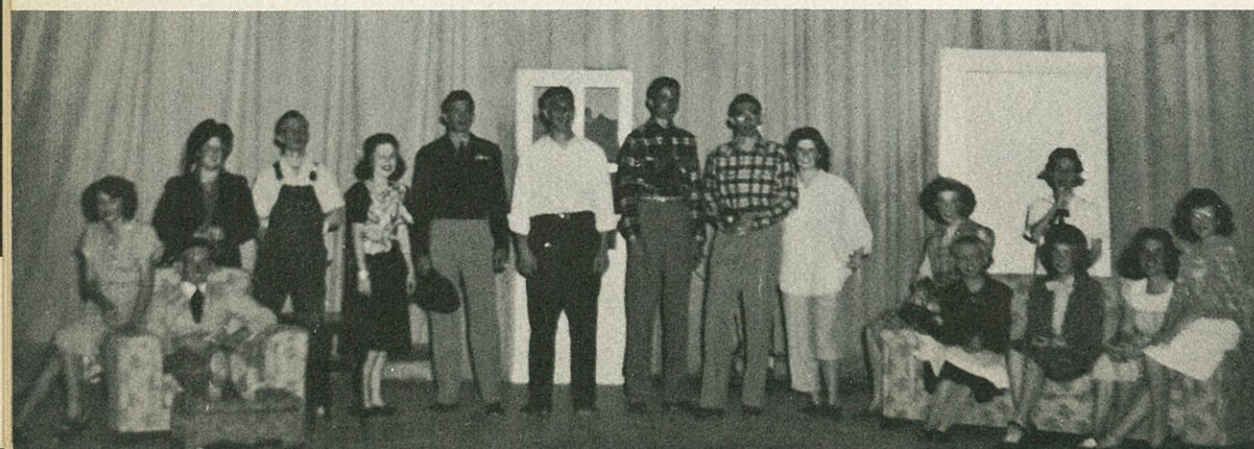

Jane	A. Rhodes
Sally	M. Stovall
Agnes	B. Noles
Andrew Cutler	K. Rodgers
Nettie Cutler	B. Boone
Ahern	P. Wilson
Jim	K. Kennedy
Rose	P. Weaver
Mrs. Tilton	M. Williams
Josie	J. Stephens
Elroy	R. Lilly
George	B. F. Meek
Marcia	B. Hazel
Cindy	L. E. Reneau
Marilyn	W. Madison
Lt. Cunningham	R. J. Smith

Cindy demonstrates the correct way to put the shot.

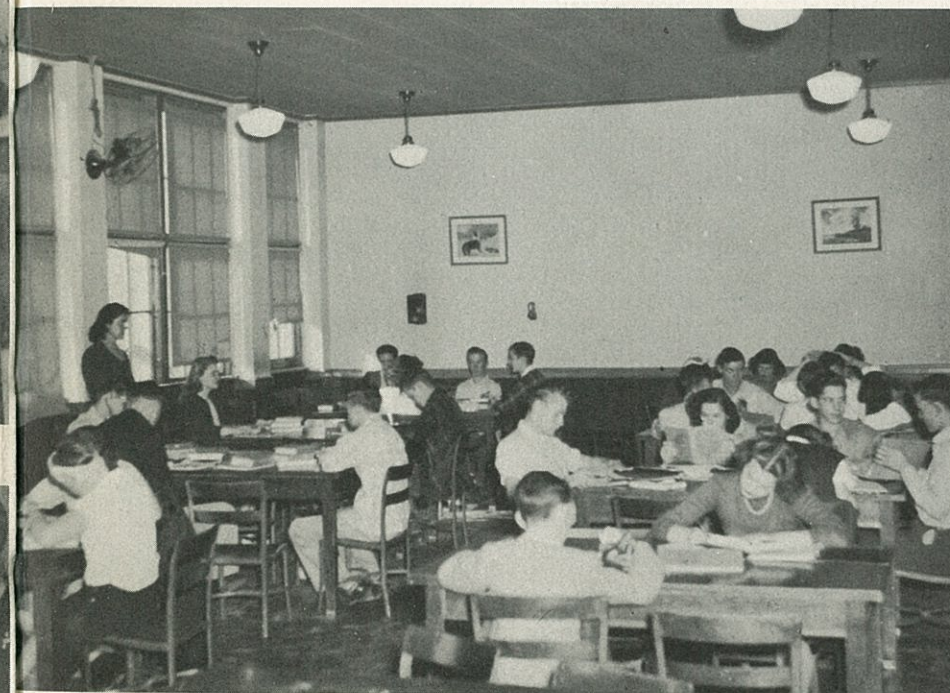

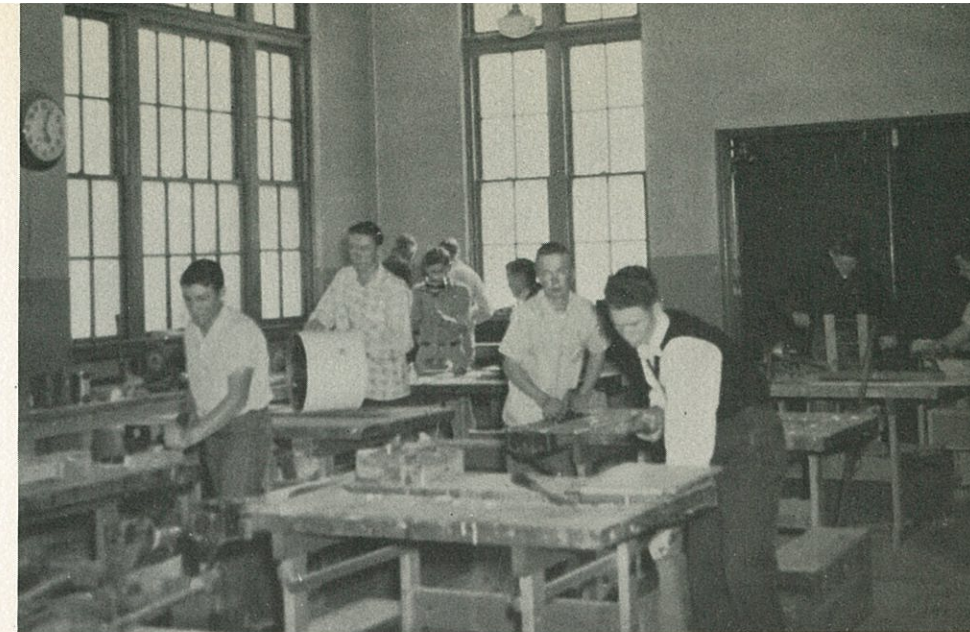

Cindy surveys the Air Corps Lieutenant, decides he's not bad.

Members of the cast, left to right, Hazel, Kennedy, Williams, Wilson, Reneau, Smith, Rodgers, Meek, Lilly, Rhodes, Stovall, Noles, Stephens, Boone, Madison, Weaver.

CLASSES

The shop is the scene of many projects. Tunes of buzzing saws and hammers are often heard coming from the shop. Practical and useful articles as well as special artful gifts are constructed with the training necessary for summer jobs.

The high school library composed of approximately 2,400 volumes, offers aid to all students and teachers on various assignments and problems. Here are found many sets of encyclopedias, reference books, dramas, poetry, and fiction, as well as issues of many current magazines.

Courses in plane geometry, algebra, and one other math are required for graduation from Kermit High School. Math is considered essential in the current curriculum of every student, college or not.

The math department possesses courses in general mathematics, first and second year algebra, plane and solid geometry, and trigonometry.

