

Randy Whorton and Glenda Crawford linger in the hall between classes.

Toni Parker sits by her locker hunting her debate material.

Cheryl Andrews appears to be exhausted after standing in line for cap and gown measurements.

Four Freshmen girls discuss their plans for the afternoon.

A group of students gather to admire their class pictures.

Leo Brooks removes campaign signs from the hall after the student council election.

Before leaving school Nanine Denton thinks of the books she will need to prepare her lessons.

Halls Are Scenes of Many Incidents