

Foreword

Contributions of great men of the past is a continuous source of references arousing the interest and curiosity of man. I am a firm believer that great men are not born but are made. Shakespeare gave this account of man. "What a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason: how infinite in faculties; in form and moving, how express and admirable." Suddenly, we look to the past, the known, in search of answers to numerous problems, ponderous decisions, and animating intentions. As we turn back to the pages of historical KHS, we find from its annals great men and women who have made notable contributions and achievements in varied fields of endeavor. They have helped to make the world a better place in which to live.

Sandstorm presents a flashback of the highlights of many various activities during the school year of 1972-1973 instant-matically. Like great men of the past, the students of KHS are the "Greatest." A source of constant pride and adoration, and a compliment to the community and the nation.

I am especially pleased to add my personal commendation, that we are extremely fortunate to have the kind of school and student body that comprise such a unique combination of "Greatness."
