REVIEW

Many high school productions come across as contrived slap-stick, but this was not the case with this year's junior class production, Star Spangled Girl. The play sparkled with truly humorous dialogue. The set provided the mood for a genuinely fun-filled evening of entertainment. Chip Handlin, Don Roberts, and Cindy Seales did an excellent job even though some of their speeches were long and difficult. Mr. Knight and those who worked behind the scenes are to be congratulated for making "the smell of love" so delightful.
