

STAFF KEPT BUSY WITH EVENTS AT KHS

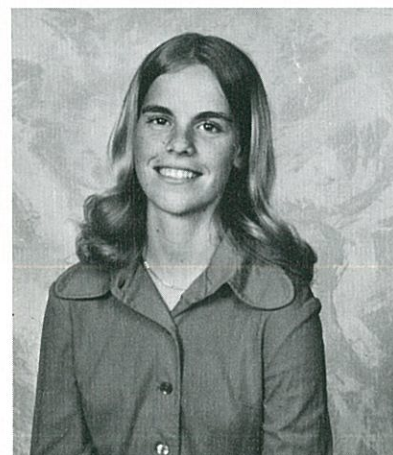

"Take some action shots during registration."
 "Have the annual signing pictures been printed yet?"
 "Yea, they are in the file."
 "People, be sure to draw all of your layouts on the 'Miniatures' first.
 "If the layouts are good, then draw them on the 'big browns'.
 "Are we supposed to bleed from the left gutter or the right?"
 "Has anyone got any brilliant ideas for a cutline on this picture?"
 "We will have to re-shoot this picture. The film was clear."

Craig's mad and Cindy's glad.

Mike's pretty happy.

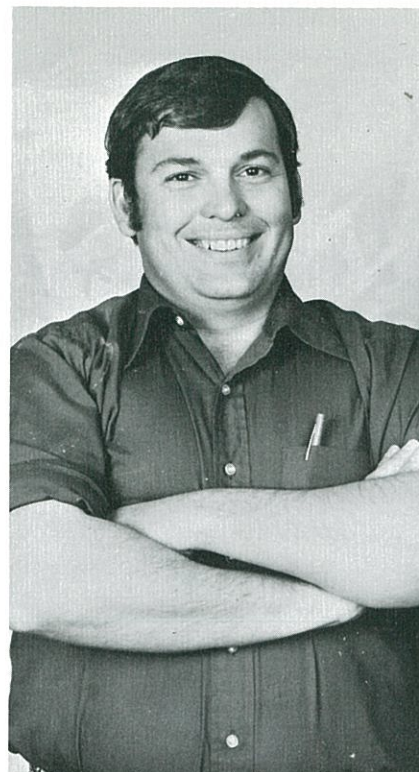

Co-Ed. Phyllis Hawkins

Another hard working kid.

"Dear, this copy will not fit in this space. You will either have to re-design the page or edit the copy."
 "Somebody didn't mix the chemicals."
 "I guess we get to relax today."
 "Relax nothing, go get some ice and cool that developer down to 68 degrees."
 "You mullet, you aren't supposed to draw on the 'quad-pack' till you have your pictures and copy."
 "No that will not work, we used that one last year."
 "People, you only bleed one picture per side on a 'double-page' spread."

"Did we meet the 82 page deadline?"
 "Heck no, but we got close. Just about 40 days off."
 "You people are going to have to get in gear if we are going to get this annual finished."
 "Why aren't you working?"
 "I'm waiting on pictures."
 "If you would look in the file, you might find them."
 "I did. Someone must have ripped them off."
 "Did you take the group and officers pictures?"
 "I got the group but I didn't know we needed the officers."

These are some of the trials and tribulations that confront a yearbook staff for nearly 180 days in the classroom. Actually the work begins about the middle of June and continues till the last deadline on June 1st.

Newsfoto Yearbooks sponsors a yearbook seminar at San Angelo in June which is attended by staffs from all over the country. This is the time when the annual first gets rolling. The foundation of the Sandstorm is layed out at this time. When school begins, duties and sections are assigned to individual staff members. Some of what the staff members go through, you just finished reading.

We, THE SANDSTORM STAFF OF 1975, enjoyed compiling this year's edition for you. Our reward will be the happy look on your faces as you turn the pages.
