

Varsity Golfers Advance To Regionals

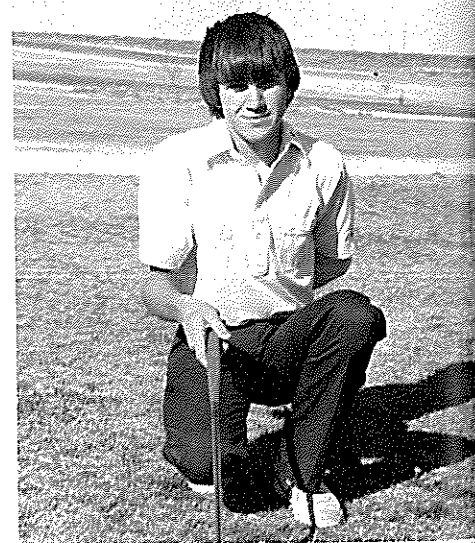

Playing on the 1984 varsity boys Yellow Jacket golf team were (l-r) Tony Dickie, Brian Barrs, Roy Richardson, Todd Garner, and Charles Blackwell.

The 1984 golf season included both fortunate and unfortunate incidents as first one golfer received a broken arm and another received multiple cuts to one arm.

Nevertheless, the team placed in district and advanced to the Regional Tournament.

Linksters Defy Weather, Win Tournaments

The varsity boys golf squad began the 1984 season by fighting through freezing temperatures and just about everything else "mother nature" could devise.

In spite of weather conditions and having to replace first one player and then another, the team managed to win numerous tournaments and represented the district in the play-offs.
