

Seniors Aim For Future

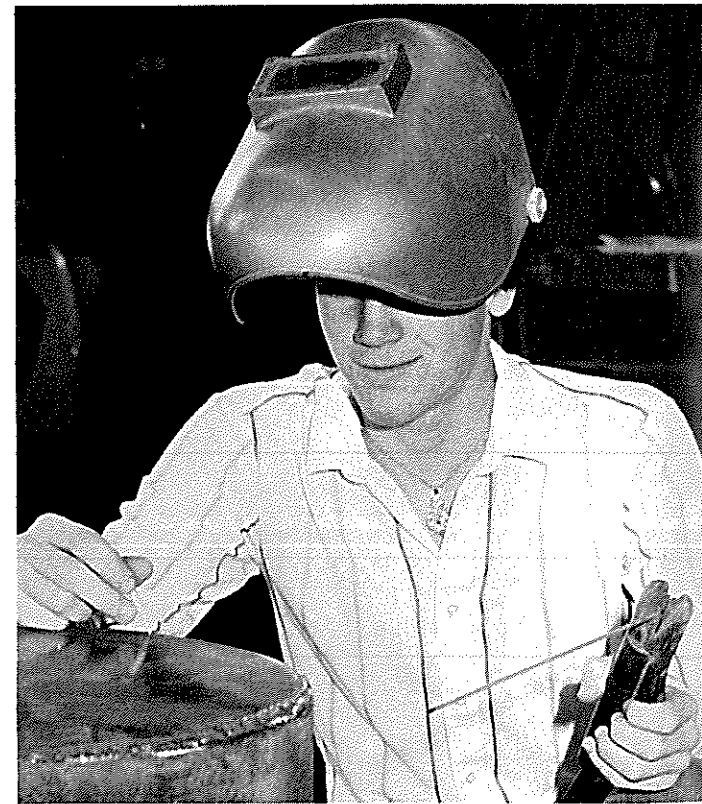

With the new state laws requiring students to pass and learn as much as possible, Cindy Hernandez never let a moment pass without studying ... but where is she?

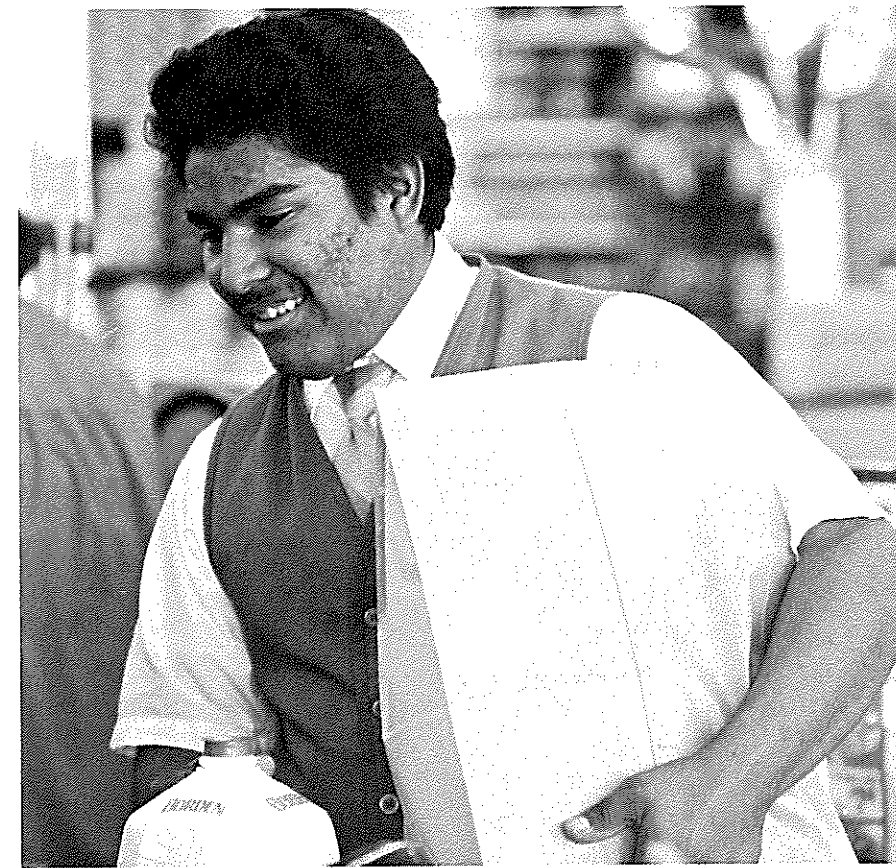

Some students found time to work outside of school as well as in class. Here, Efen Marquez stocks a shelf in Gibson's.

Although they were at the 1985 Homecoming Dance, Amy Hause and Ruben Towns seem to be enjoying themselves without dancing.

All classes don't limit themselves to desk work and books ... some get students involved in the real world of work. Tony Dickie is shown preparing to strike an arc in welding.

Many students began working toward future goals in the world of work while still in high school. Mike Lara spends his afternoons learning marketing skills while employed at Serv-all Thriftway.

Much of the time outside class for Denise Higgins includes working at a local grocery firm. Here, she is shown stocking the check-out counters with grocery bags.
