

The High School Senior May Fete

As the ship of Good Cheer moved serenely across the waters the chorus sang its songs of happiness. Solid white with a touch of gold were the colors of this ship that had its purpose "Unification of May songs and dances." As the Captain anchored the ship on the shores of various countries, Gladys Young, the herald, announced the native dances. Then when foreign travels were over America, the homeland, paid tribute to the wanderers. A Maypole of rainbow hue was the dance. Afterwards came the duchesses and princesses of the four High School classes who gracefully ascended into the boat where a throne decked with flowers awaited the presence of the Royal Queen, Juel Cummins, whose gown and train of purest white, and whose crown of jewels added to the beauty of the scene. Superintendent A. E. Lang crowned her Queen of the May and as the lights grew dimmer the songs of the Glee Club became fainter, the spell of May found its way to the heart of each individual.
