

Down through the many years of history there have come names of great men and women who were not only famous in their times, but whose names have survived for hundreds of years. Many of these are famous for their brave deeds while others are remembered because of a poem or a story that they left to the world. Then there are some who were famous because of their beauty and amiability. Cleopatra and Helen of Troy were examples of those who were famous for their beauty. Since we are making history constantly, we thought it fitting to select those who would represent us (the student body of Wink High School in 1930) on this page of history. Those selected to represent us in beauty and popularity were:
