FOREWORD

In compiling the 1944 Wildcat the staff has, because of war restrictions, labored under some difficulty. At first we thought that it would be impossible to continue the publication of a yearbook, but after persistent endeavor, and much delay, sufficient film was procured to start the making of pictures; so the staff launched out on the construction of layout and copy.

We believe we are justified in continuing this publication, even in the face of the war effort, because of the lasting value a record such as a yearbook gives of the activities of a school.

Campus life has been chosen as the theme for this yearbook with the fond hope that as through the years this book is opened and its pages scanned the material herein contained will strengthen "The Tie That Binds" the students of Wink High School to their almatmater.
