SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

William Lyon Phelps expressed the way I feel about teaching so much better than I can that I give you his words. "I do not know that I could make entirely clear to an outsider the pleasure I have in teaching. I had rather earn my living by teaching than in any other way. Teaching is an art--an art so great and so difficult to master that a man or a woman can spend a long life at it without realizing much more than his limitations and mistakes and his distances from the ideal. There never has been in the world's history a period when it was more worth while to be a teacher than in the twentieth century; for there was never an age when such vast multitudes were eager for an education or when the necessity of a liberal education was so generously recognized."
