Superintendent's Message

I believe that education is the most important problem that faces us today. It is more important than atomic power or the ability to orbit the earth, because, if people are not properly educated in accordance with the terrific requirements of this rapidly spiraling scientific and industrial civilization, we are bound to go down.

To you Seniors who are leaving us, I hope that your years spent in Wink High School have been so dedicated to prepare you to meet the challenges of this world. To those of you who remain, I ask that you pledge your efforts toward improving your minds and bodies in order to meet the ever changing problems that the future might hold for you.

Sincerely,

Frank R. Barton
