

National Honor Society

Jeanne Rodgers, Steve Eggleston, Donnie Collins, Millie Moya, Kim Jacobson, Jim McCallister, Terri Henson, Steve McDonald, Ricky Dodson, Tina Fabbri, Deeana Collins, John Curtis, Raymond Dodd, Bradley White, Richard Rives, Jimmy Henderson, Mary Lou Garcia, Charlie Wolf.

Officers

Kim Jacobson-Secretary; Charlie Wolf-President; Steve Eggleston-Vice President.

Junior Honor Society

Mike Hensen, Leslye Mitchell, Wayland Thomas, Cynthia Landry, Elaine Owes, Jamie Winn, Kim Wilkinson, Sheila Gay, Donna Long, Ruth Guadarrama, Mrs. Sharon Winn, Judy Adams, Tim Curtis I, Francis Serna, Raymond Adams, Don Jacobsen.

Membership in the National Honor Society is exactly what the name of the society implies — an honor. It is Not a right or even a privilege granted to all. It is an honor which must be earned, and the same qualifications which help one to earn it must be upheld throught one's membership in the society.

There are four basic requirements for membership: scholarship, service, leadership, and character. In the area of scholarship, a student must maintain at least an eighty-five (85) cumulative average for the courses he has taken while in high school. To exhibit service, a student must show his willingness to devote his time to assisting visitors, teachers, and fellow students. Leadership is demondtrated through holding elective offices and by participating in various school organizations and team activities. Character is evidence by adherence to school and community standards and exemplification of the personal qualities of cheerfulness, friendliness, maturity, and integrity.

These standards are high. Not all students can achieve or maintain them. But those who do, is afforded the honor of membership in one of the most prestigious secondary school organizations in the nation, the National Honor Society.