The year has finally come to a close. Final exams have been taken, books turned in, and lockers emptied out. It's time to take a break from the hustle and bustle of school and get into the fast moving pace and freedom that summer brings.

Going back through the school days together we remember some of the most exciting and emotional moments of the year: The big rainfall right before school started, which we hoped would delay school a few days. The thrilling show the football team put on during the first seconds of the Homecoming game. The tension and tears shared by the volleyball team and the spectators during and after the loss to Ft. Davis at the Area match. The basketball game against Sands that kept us on the edge of our seats through overtime until our victory by 1 point. The display of determination and hard work that carried three of the UIL participants and one trackster to State and then the happiness expressed by everyone for John who captured the State Title in Prose. Finally, the anticipation of waiting for that special night to arrive — THE PROM!

The memories go on and on and each one of us has been a part of making them happen. We've shared a lot and been through a lot. Not only have we learned from our teachers; we've learned from each other. The loss of a special friend made us realize how much we really care for the ones around us and how we should value all that we have. So never forget all the feelings you know, they'll be with you wherever you go!
