

Mr. Watts is shown smiling while realizing lunch is just around the corner.

Mrs. Jacobsen is filling out one of the many charges for forgetful students.

Our new superintendant, Mr. Sollis, catches the swing of things here at W.H.S.

Mr. Dodd catching a snooze after reading House Bill 72!

The Wink-Loving Independent School System has been great for many years because of all of these people. They're all dedicated to making Wink a better school for today's youth and for the children of the future.

Some people don't realize how fortunate their children are to be able to attend Wink Schools. The entire administrative staff will do almost anything for any student.

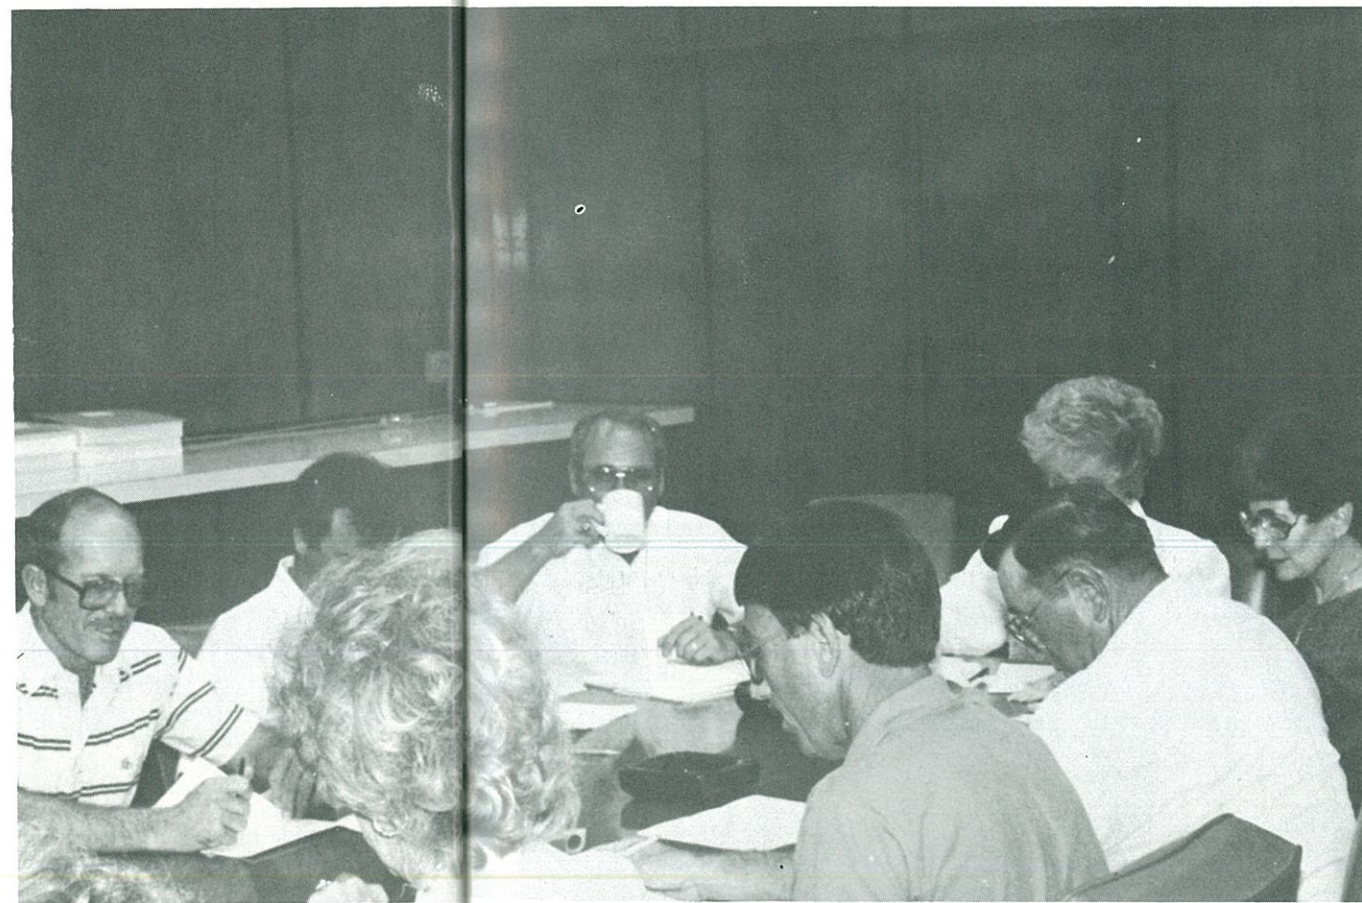

Last year we lost a valuable asset to the Wink School System, Frank R. Barton. Being the powerful school we are, we came back with someone who is another asset — John W. Solis, Jr.

Mrs. Tompson is busy at work typing up dictations for the new superintendant, Mr. Sollis.

Three of the board members are pictured just before a faculty luncheon. They looked as if they couldn't wait to dig in.

Mrs. Dorman manages to keep the hectic school finances under control.

Mrs. Bolf makes a secretary's job "elementary."

The school board shoots the breeze before getting down to business.