

Memories Are Made Of This . . .

Homecoming '87 was one to remember. The three nominees were selected two weeks before the game. The excitement continued through the halls and all through the students for the next two weeks. The cheerleaders played a big part in supporting the guys and the spirit through the halls. All the time that they put into the pep-rally and in their routine paid off well. They had goodies for the guys and there was spirit and pride in the air.

The enthusiasm was catching, for all the students. There was spirit in the band during the football game. The band yelled and shouted at the top of their lungs to cheer on the guys. The band watched with pride for there was a touchdown made every few minutes. There was no riling of the victory song for it seemed that was all that was heard all night long.

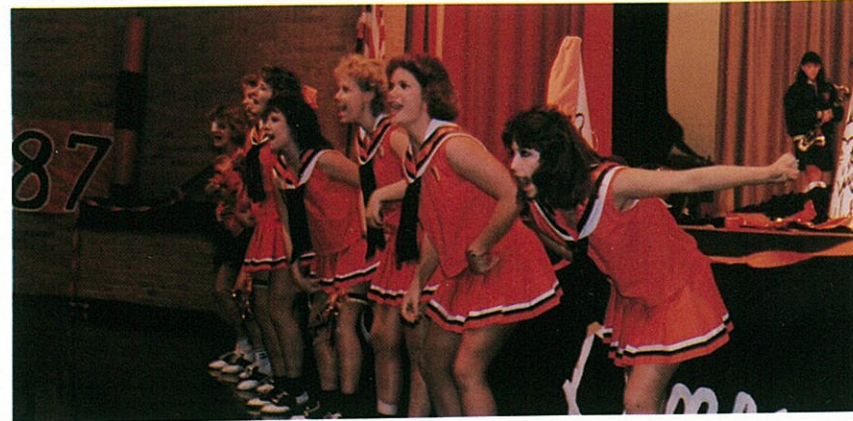

Ex's seem to leave Wink but it never fails that at every Homecoming they return. It's a special time in Wink for everyone to introduce their family to their old friends. It's a chance to see how much a person can change in a few years out of school. But most of all it's just special to be able to come home and be received in a friendly manner. A true Wildcat never loses his pride, it doesn't matter where he goes. He always comes back.

Homecoming '87 was one to remember. The final score will remain in our minds, and hearts for a very long time. 83-09 will be remembered as a true WIPE OUT!!!

Guys do some stretches on the sidelines. The game didn't require much work, it was considered a WIPE OUT!

Cheerleaders show their spirit all day and all through the pep-rally. Sonia showed her enthusiasm as she jammed.

It doesn't matter how far they go or where, Ex's always come home. These Ex's helped register all night and still kept smiles on their faces.

Veronica Serna, our '87 Homecoming Queen, gave us a big smile. Kristyl Yates looked, too but Kristi Jones decided that she would close her eyes for this one.

Veronica Serna, a senior, was crowned the 1987 Homecoming Queen. She shows us a beautiful smile as she was presented her crown and flowers.

Kristi Jones, Jeff Jones
Veronica Serna, Scotty Carman
Kristyl Yates, Tony Roach

The band shows its spirit as it watches for an oncoming touchdown. Without a doubt the team scored and raised the score even higher.