Lucy Valenzuela, Melissa Hawkins, Janda Northcutt, and Stephanie Maddux are enjoying their free time during lunch, but Janda is hoping the camera man hasn't heard their plan.

All through the school year, you can hear the laughing and talking of the junior high students as they roam the halls during the five minute break between classes. There is never a quiet moment from the time that bell rings 'till the next bell rings signaling tardiness. Over the next few years, these same students will be noticing the behavior of the upcoming junior high students as they say "I never acted like that!"

You can't possibly believe that Frankie Warner and Jerry Moya are listening to the teacher. They want to look at the camera just as badly as Bill Moyler does.

Cristabel Rios and Ana Miranda don't join in on the lunchtime activities! They would much rather sit and watch.

As you can see, the eighth graders all have different views on the classroom activity. Unfortunately, none of their views are actually on school work.
