

These Wildcats wait nervously for the Grand March to start.

Stepping Out

The halls are all empty now and not a sound can be heard. School's over but fond memories still run the heads and hearts of many. As the seniors have their final nights on graduation, these memories will be more alive than ever. Memories of happiness, sadness, anger, and change. Yes, there have been lots of changes made over this past year. Some of the changes were for the good and some we just can't tell about, yet.

As we search for ways to remember our school when we leave we always seem to see the happy times. Times of laughing with our friends and times of crying with our friends.

Just as the year started it must end, but not without memories. As we had our hopes, dreams, fears, and ambitions in the start of the school year, we have these same feelings in the end, because again we have stepped forward into the unknown.

The Wink teachers start losing "it" at the end of the year when they think they've become farm animals. These teachers performed to raise money for the ATPE scholarship.

Mr. Bill Beckham proudly presents Jimmy Barger his diploma while Mr. Watts waits to move his tassel to the left.

Candy looks on as Matt Brown shows us his wild side.

Trey Bustamante, J.R. Sanches, and Jens Moog are getting ready for the big moment.

These elementary students are shown here running their hearts out.

110 The Wink band is always working hard. It all paid off when they won two first divisions at contest.

The eighth grade graduating class of 1990-1991.

The Wink School faculty look on as they time the elementary students at the Pee Wee Track Meet.

Mikie looks out in the night, while Diana tries out a new face for the camera.