

Seniors Desiree Moog, Yolanda Rincon, and eighth grader Eric Hawkins take a break while watching others dance.

Junior class President Peter Lara welcomes students, faculty, and administration to the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Senior Felicia Compton waits patiently for her date to ask her for the next dance.

Senior class Vice President Janda Northcutt and classmate Frankie Warner read the wills to the junior class.

Stairway to Heaven

One memory of the 1992-93 year was the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom May 15. Seniors picked the theme "Stairway to Heaven" by Led Zeppelin and black and silver as their class colors. The banquet meal, prepared by junior mothers, was lasagna, green beans, salad, juice cocktail, hot rolls, tea, and cheesecake. Following the color scheme, tables were decorated with silver cloths, vases, and tinsel. Black roses, napkins and dinnerware completed the glimmering setting.

Juniors and seniors worked the afternoon before the banquet and prom setting up the cafeteria into their night of heaven. An iridescent gate, with silver steps and a black runner opened to a special stairway, built by senior sponsor Gary Mosier and his shop students. Flats and pylons, covered with black and silver paper, gossamer and balloons, completed the major decoration for the theme. Tables were decorated for dancers to sit, talk, and relax between songs and videos by Tunes Across Texas. A fog machine added a dreamy quality to the reality of a night in Heaven for prom-goers.

Shae Scott and Stephen Tidwell get down to the nitty gritty.

Juniors Mayra Valeriano and Michael Hinchcliffe dance the night away.