

Senior Marcie Sledge concentrates as she recreates a picture of her mother and two sisters.

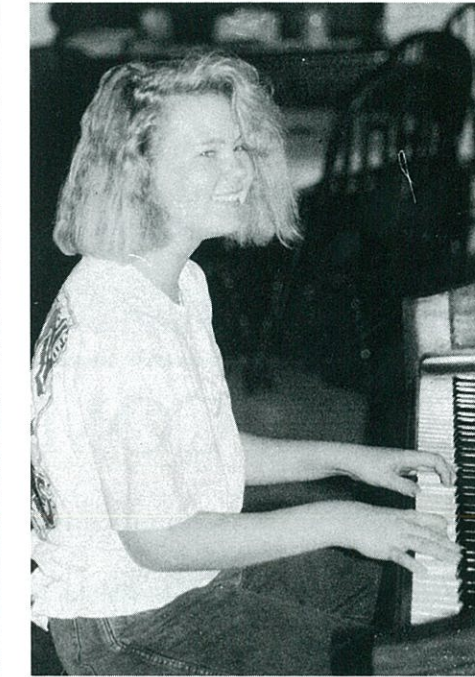

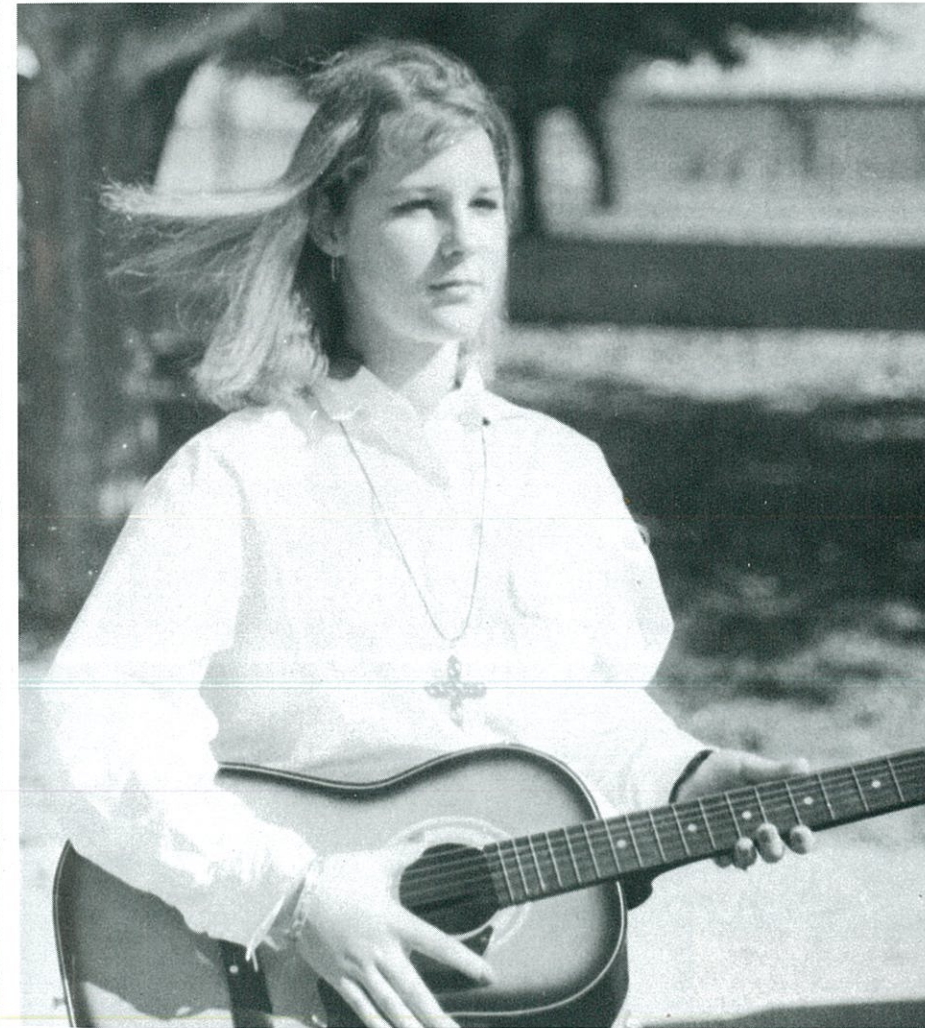

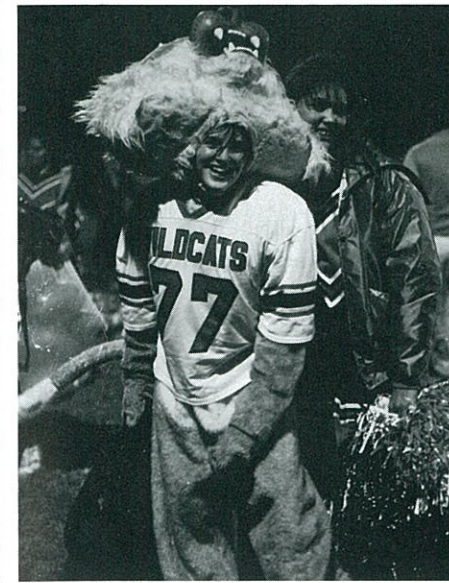

Freshmen Sally Carrillo and Jason Moya strut their stuff as they express themselves by dancing.

Freshman Kimberly Hawkins stands proud as she shows her talent of T-shirt painting and cross stitch.

Sophomore mascot Shannon Parham takes a breath of fresh air after the Wildcats dominated the Bearkats in Garden City.

Freshman Wendy Mosier practices piano one and one-half hours a day to prepare for UIL Solo and Ensemble.

Junior Brande Scott in her blaze of glory plays 'Oh My Darling, Clementine' for the lunch time entertainment.

Making Their Statements

Talent is abundant throughout Wink's student population. Pleasure, service, competition, recognition, and fulfillment of the childhood dreams motivate students to excel in art, drama, music, and dancing.

Senior Marcie Sledge's art work has paid off in ribbons and awards, including honorable mention in Kermit and a first and third in Odessa. Her greatest honor was a first place in Odessa, with a drawing of an Indian.

Junior Brande Scott has been playing the guitar since the third grade, and since childhood she has wanted to be a singer. Her influence has been Dolly Parton.

Sophomore Shannon Parham started performing because she thought it would be a neat idea to try out for one-act. She finds performing a way to express her creativity.

Freshman Kim Hawkins began with handcrafts when her mother was working on plastic canvas. Her favorite is cross stitch, which she gives away as gifts.

Freshman Wendy Mosier plays piano for pleasure, for church, and recitals. She also accompanies soloists during solo and ensemble contest.

Freshmen Sally Carrillo and Jason Moya share a common love: dancing. Sally finds it a way to express herself and it gave Jason something to do when he lived near Dallas.