

Junior Jennifer Marrufo, excited to go out during the halftime performance at Sanderson, hurriedly adjusts her hat.

Drum Major Janda Northcutt rises above Baad Cat Band members as she direct them in "Devil's Canyon." She also plays a flute solo during halftime performance.

BAAD CATS MARCH TO VICTORY

The Baad Cat Band marched onto the field for the first time this year larger than they've been in the history of the school.

After working out a few problems with behavior, attitude, and work ethic, the band competed with 1A to 5A schools at the Tumbleweed Classic Marching Contest in Denver City. They were the only class A band to finish in the finals, where they earned fourth place.

At UIL marching contest in Odessa October 24, the Baad Cat Band marched home for the second year in a row with a one rating.

Director Tom Burns said, "I see and hear the show thousands of times in rehearsal, I know where to look and listen for mistakes; the judges just get one chance." All three judges rated the Cats as first division.

During a halftime performance, soloist Carlos Lopez steps out to be seen and heard as he plays "Everything I Do, I Do It for You."

Baad Cat Band members watch the other band's halftime performance.

Sophomore Merrick Brown shows his stuff during a halftime solo performance as he emerges from the center of the flags to begin "Do Wah Diddy."

Freshman Kimberly Hawkins takes time out of the wild life to live on the glamorous side for awhile.