

Junior Jacob Blair shows his appetite for a turkey leg as he takes a huge bite during his English class's study of The Canterbury Tales.

Junior Jennifer Kubena rocks back and gives the photographer a smile to show how much she is enjoying homemaking.

Senior Student Council member Peter Lara holds kindergarten student Drey Rasco, while offering him safety tips for Halloween.

Senior LaCosta Stanley holds up the chalkboard decorating the Christmas tree that shows students how many days are left until Christmas vacation.

Senior T. Gabe Loftin and teammates Jason Moya and Brian Lovell sing the victory march with powerful voices after the Wildcats won the district championship.

Junior Jeffrey Watts shows off his awesome Barney suit in the hallway during Halloween.

LICENSED to be WILDCATS

In a year that recorded Michael Jordan announcing his retirement and earthquakes rocking California, Wink students were being slowed down at lunch for running to get to the front of the serving line. We just thought we had it rough! It was a year that Wildcats were definitely Licensed to Prowl: in academics, athletics, activities, school spirit, and in their day-to-day routines. An active Student Council solicited select prizes from companies all over the U.S. to develop an incentive for