

Eighth grade band member Amber Robertson gladly spent hours of practice to help make the Baad Cat Band a big success.

Inspired by football players in the movie, The Program, Jacob Blair put on a special game face for the Homecoming Pep Rally.

Students, including Wayne Gunn, Marci and Mandi McCallister, Jeffrey Watts, Michael Berta and Alan Watts, display their popular No Fear tee shirts.

Change, anticipation, great expectations, and a sense of family set the tone for the 1994-95 school year at all levels of Wink-Loving Independent School District.

New principals in both high school and elementary led to the sense of change. The campuses switched from a seven to eight period day meaning more hours at school but a greater flexibility in scheduling.

Wink students, teachers, and administrators, as always, were dedicated to academic excellence, but, without a doubt, football reigned supreme during the first semester of the school year. Anticipation of great things to come prevailed on August 16, when classes began, and expectations grew as the Wildcats won game after game and took the season into the month of December.

Some say nothing pulls a town together like a winning football team. That was certainly true in the case of the '94 Wildcats. Parents, townspeople, businesses, and elementary students backed the Cats with growing devotion each week.

When the season ended, the family atmosphere spilled over into all aspect of school life. Students dedicated themselves, through hard work and determination, to again winning the District U.I.L. Literary Meet, the Baad Cat Band won a third consecutive sweepstakes, test scores soared, and basketball and track teams flourished.

Cheerleaders Karina Carrillo, Shannon Parham, Kristy Northcutt, Sally Carrillo, Ashley Robertson and Erin Jones along with Willy Wildcat (J. Lopez) braved cold wet weather to support the football team.

Students wore tee shirts with slogans that matched their confident attitudes:

"You don't need luck if you're good. I've never lost; I've just been a little behind when the time ran out. There is no off-season."

These attitudes, as well as the shirts on their backs proclaimed . . .

NO FEAR

Coach Sam Scott may have had second thoughts, but he made good on a promise to let senior football captain Brian Lovell shave his head after the Wildcats impressive win over the McCamey Badgers.

Sixth graders including Candy Carroll, Todd Warren, Jeffrey Casteel, Ethan Hamm, and Nydia Porras made flags to pump up spirit for a play-off game.
