

Eric Warriner is escorted on Football Parents' Night, by his parents, Lonnie and Cindy Cook. Parents play a big part in keeping students of Wink High School on the right track.

Flag corps members Mandi Haring, Amy Hawkins, Michelle Harbin, Twila McKee, Tina Wilson, Amber Connell, Lisa Claborn, and Casie Slaughter are loaded down with hats, flags, scarves, and instruments as they prepare to take the audience to a 'South of the Border Fiesta' at the Regional Marching Band Contest at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa.

One of The Wildcat staff photographers, junior Eric Hawkins, was seen taking pictures all over the place - even from the top of the auditorium. His hard work has paid off with some great pictures for this year's publication.

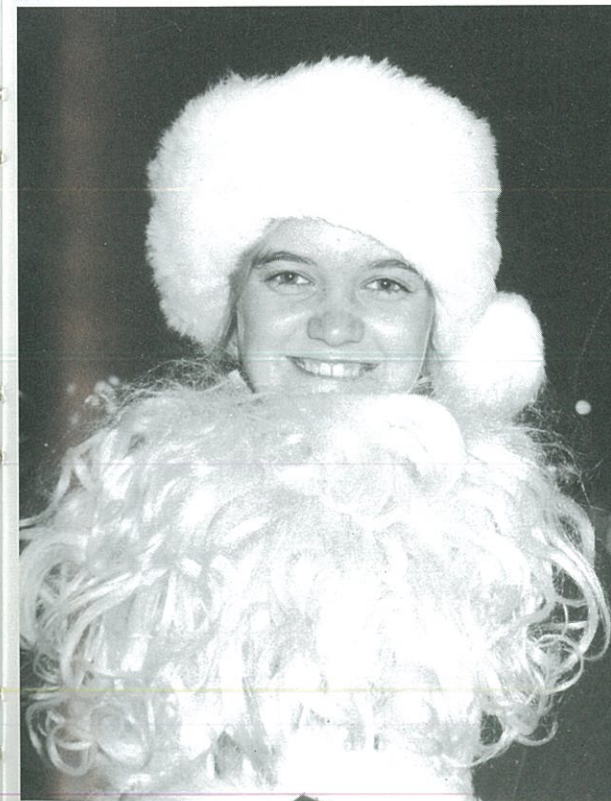

Wildcat quarterback Duncan Hamm saddles up and heads out to rope a steer in a successful attempt to boost spirit prior to the Fort Davis game. A roping contest between team captains and coaches was a huge pep rally favorite.

Senior Buck Jones works in his auto mechanics class using a cutting torch to cut metal for the bed-liner of a pick-up the class repaired.

East was the general direction of travel on January 17, when an extremely powerful western wind carried away any thing that was not tied down - and some things that were. The JV basketball team and their coach, Tim Seymore, witnessed a strong gust topple one of Wildcat Stadium's light towers as they were walking from the old gym to the new after practice. The cost to repair the 300 ft. tower was estimated to run between $25,000 and $30,000. Coach Seymore and team members Robin Warbois, Amber Robertson, Jennifer McGehee, Lisa Claborn, Erin Wolf, and Amanda Henderson checked out the damage the next morning.

For the most part, the weather on football Fridays was nice and mild. But, a steady northerly wind that blew in about gametime made seniors Denise Prescott, Melissa Vaught, and Delfy Rey bundle up to enjoy the Wildcats' victory over Fort Davis.

The Baad Cat Band made sure the spirit of Christmas was in the air when the Wildcats took on the Sudan Hornets at Andrews on December 8. Flag Corps member Twila McKee made a 'pretty' believable Santa.
