

Life Between Summers

Student council president Jennifer Tinkler brings the first day of school assembly to order and the year is off and running. Through the remainder of the year, Jennifer's voice brought students to attention each morning with important information during second period announcements.

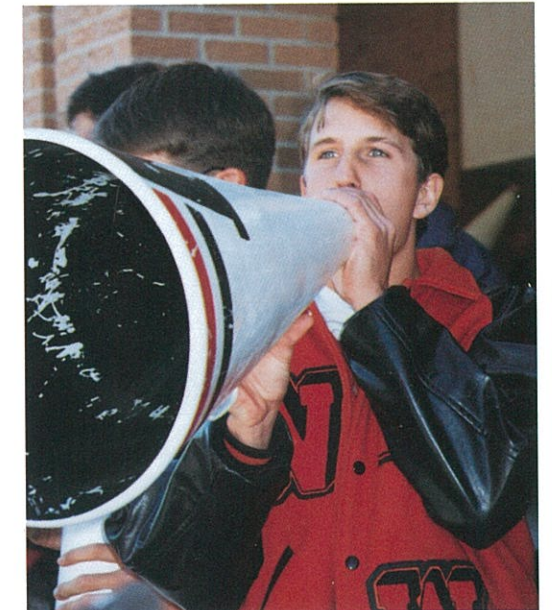

The lazy days of summer end for students and faculty of WLISD on August 14, when the 1996-97 school year begins. Summer vacation seems short, but the tradition of success makes everyone eager to face the new year in quest of even greater accomplishments.

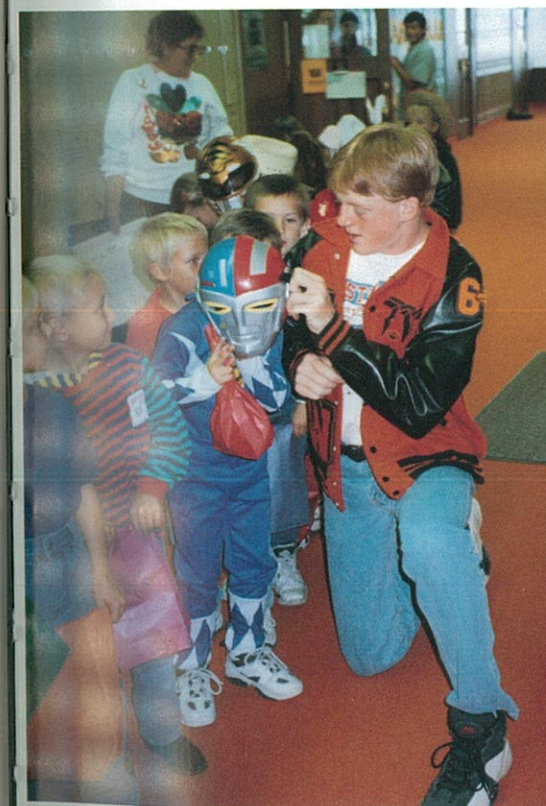

After a three year drought, the Lady Cat volleyball team celebrates once again making it into the play-off season. They gather in front of the auditorium for a grand send-off from the student body prior to playing Water Valley in a bi-district match.

Tables turn when football players take on the roles of cheerleaders at a mini-pep rally in honor of the Lady Cats just before their bi-district game. Senior Chris Lee gives his whole-hearted support to the volleyball team.

A beautiful early fall morning gives senior Melissa Marrufo the perfect day to decorate the senior class tree during Red Ribbon Week, but what a difference a few months make. Junior Greg Smith and seventh graders Chad Clark and Mallory Bryan are greeted by huge snowflakes as they head to the band hall for eighth period class during the first week back to school after Christmas break.

fall tradition continues as Mrs. Emma Dean's kindergarten class participates in the annual Spook Parade through the high school halls on Halloween. Senior Brandon Jones hands out treats to the young visitors.

S.T.A.R.S. (Students Taking Action to Reach Success), the Student Council theme, says it all. As the year progressed, the ceilings in both the high school and junior high halls became covered with orange and white stars proclaiming student achievement in academics and athletics. Here, council vice-president, Amber Connell, hangs yet another star.
