

Excitement abounds every Friday night during the fall as the Wildcats take to the football field.

The 1600m relay team of Melissa Shackelford, Jess Anne Fernandes, Jennifer Hawkins and Michelle Harbin are all smiles at the area track meet. They had just beaten the school record with a time of 4:12.

Casie Slaughter greets teammates Ashley Abila, Erin Wolf, Shane Jones and Angela Milligan prior to the tip-off of a district basketball game.

Volleyball team members including Geanna Baker, Jess Anne Fernandes, Marci McCallister, Mandi McCallister, Erin Wolf, Ryan Thomas, and Shane Jones celebrate one of their many volleyball victories.

The burning of the WW at the homecoming bonfire signifies the flaming desire to compete with excellence that lies deep in the hearts of Wildcat athletes.

Nothing holds a more important place in the lives of the majority of Wildcats than their participation in athletic activities. This is where we come together not only as individuals, but as teams, to further advance the longstanding tradition of Wildcat Pride. In fact as we travel roads all over Texas, our buses announce 'Here Come the Cats' and 'Pride Inside'. The charter buses proclaim our athletes' sense of spirit and sportsmanship. The name Wink Wildcats precedes each of our teams and strikes fear into the hearts of our rivals. From volleyball and football in the fall, all the way to track in the spring, Wildcats find athletics to be a great way to excel and at the same time enjoy the fun and camaraderie of team competition.
