

Tomorrow's Success Depends on Learning Today

In biology class, a required course for sophomores, Coy Fields learns skills that let him successfully use a microscope.

The small engine repair class offers students the opportunity to repair many kinds of small mechanical devices. Senior Patrick Voyles and junior W.E. Tinkler work together repairing a weed-eater.

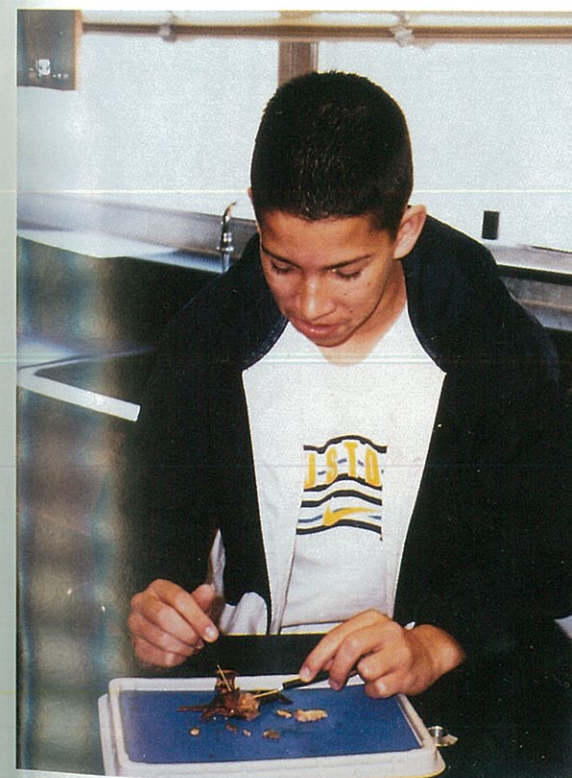

One perk for some seniors is the opportunity to be a teacher's aide. Under the watchful eye of high school secretary Barbara Dossey, Crystal Smith has the opportunity to learn valuable office skills.

Knowing the importance of organization, freshman Rhonda Bingham keeps an orderly locker and has no trouble quickly locating her homework in time for her next class.

Seniors Shannon Garratt and Jennifer Hawkins volunteer to help the food science and nutrition class by serving refreshments at the open house for the dedication of the new library.

In wood shop, senior Aaron Treadwell works on a jointer while constructing a hope chest that she can treasure forever. In addition to having a beautiful piece of furniture Aaron also learns skills that will be useful to her throughout life.
